Dengkou is known for producing and distributing fiberglass cable trays and other cable management solutions, including steel, stainless steel, PVC, GRP, and aluminum systems for industrial and construction applications (). These products are designed to support, organize, and protect electrical and communication cables, but they are not optical or fiber optic cables.

Optical Cable Sourcing in China

For optical or fiber optic cables, China hosts a large number of specialized manufacturers and suppliers. Leading companies include Shenzhen Hanxin Communication Optical Fiber Cable Co., Ltd., Guangdong Dekam Optical Communication Technology Co., Ltd., and other regional clusters in Guangdong, Jiangsu, and other provinces (). These manufacturers produce a wide range of fiber optic cables, including:

- Telecommunications and data center cables
- FTTH (Fiber to the Home) drop cables

- Armored and loose-tube cables for metro and rural networks
- High-density and bend-resistant designs China's optical cable industry emphasizes high production capacity, international standards compliance (ITU-T G.652, IEC 60794), and customization capabilities, making it a major global supplier ().

Recommendations

If your goal is to source optical cables, it is advisable to:

- Contact specialized optical cable manufacturers in China rather than Dengkou.
- Evaluate suppliers based on production capacity, certifications, and export experience.
- Consider regional hubs like Shenzhen, Guangzhou, and Dongguan for fast turnaround and competitive pricing (). In summary, while Dengkou is a reputable supplier for cable trays and management systems, it does not appear to sell optical cables, and sourcing should focus on dedicated fiber optic cable manufacturers in China.
